School Board changes head lice policy, raises lunch fees

The School Board at its March 24 meeting changed the school system's procedure for dealing with students who have head lice.

In the past, students with the parasites were sent home with instructions to their parents on how to get rid of the lice. They weren't allowed back in school until the lice were gone. Now, many students with head lice will be allowed to attend class.

"The board felt this was the best option," said Deb Foltz, director of district wide services for the school system. "Some students were missing more school than they needed to. With some minor precautions taken in the classroom, there's no reason to remove a student simply due to lice."

Also at the meeting, the board did not change its policy on bed bugs which allows students with bed bugs in their homes to attend class.

"The health department says bed bugs are a significant nuisance but not a heath threat," Foltz said. "They don't carry disease or live on people."

In other School Board business:

•The board approved a ten-cent increase in the price of school lunches.

"The Board hated to do that because we know every penny counts in many households," said Superintendent of Schools Travis Huber. "But the increase was necessary to keep the lunches we serve in line with federal guidelines. We were afraid the increase might even have to be higher."

•The board set a tentative graduation date of Saturday, May 30, 2015. The later date was necessary due to missed days this winter because of bad weather. This year's Prom will be Friday, April 17.

NAS expansion will cost $150M

North American Stainless (NAS), one of the area's largest employers, announced last week it's planning a $150 million expansion. It will be the stainless steel manufacturer's 11th expansion since it began operation in 1990.

"North American Stainless and its parent company, Acerinox S.A., continue to invest in Kentucky," said Governor Steve Beshear. "This announcement demonstrates the company's continued confidence that Kentucky is the ideal place for their operation to succeed. I want to thank NAS for growing in Kentucky and creating dozens of new jobs."

The expansion will allow NAS to add a bright annealing line and a new cold rolling mill. The bright annealing line

Legislative session ends with heroin bill

Kentucky's General Assembly wrapped up its session last week. Here are some of the things it did and didn't get accomplished.

•A bill was passed to help stem the deadly heroin epidemic that has affected much of Kentucky and the country. The law includes $10 million in treatment funding and the creation of a "Good Samaritan" clause to give amnesty to anyone calling emergency responders for a drug overdose.

•The House passed a state-wide smoking ban

Coming to grips with addiction

Growing use of heroin often brings tragedy

By Kathleen Niece
News Reporter

More than 80 people attended the town hall meeting, "Heroin-The Need to Understand", Friday night at the high school auditorium. Sheriff Josh Neale and several others spoke about the need for our community to combat this terrible drug problem in Gallatin County.

Heroin is an inexpensive, illegal drug that's highly addictive and easy to obtain. Once addicted, those who use the drug often turn to crime to fund their habit. Using heroin not only affects the addict but also family members and friends. Pregnant women who use heroin also jeopardize the health of their unborn babies.

•Bonnie Hedrick from the NKY Prevention Alliance spoke about the new law Kentucky Governor Steve Beshear signed last week that immediately went into effect. Senate Bill 192 calls for tougher penalties for drug dealers and more money for substance-abuse treatment programs.

The law makes it easier for treatment centers to expand and cover more rehabilitation through Medicare. In addition, it has created a needle exchange program to make sterile needles available to drug users to help curtail the spread of diseases such as hepatitis and HIV.

•EMS Chris Combs spoke about the dangers first responders face when called to help someone who has overdosed. Diseases such as hepatitis can be active on drug paraphernalia for more than six months and can sicken medical personnel and their families.

•Ashel Kruetzkamp, a nurse manager at St. Elizabeth Hospital talked about Senate Bill 192 and the drug Naloxone that can save the life of someone who has overdosed. The Bill allows pharmacists to prescribe the drug. Friends and relatives of drug users were urged to learn how to administer Naloxone by a health care professional.

•Charlotte Wethington of Kenton County spoke about her son, Matthew "Casey" Wethington, a young man who had a love for life until he became addicted to heroin. As her son's life spiraled out of

April is my kind of month

This and That

By Kelley Warnick
Editor

April begins this week and I couldn't be happier.

Everyone knows April showers bring May flowers. The month is responsible, however, for more than getting tulips off to a good start.

April is one of my favorite months because it starts off with a laugh.

I know April has begun when I get to work and the first thing my brother says is: "Hey man, better check that zipper of yours."

Yes, Clay loves April Fools jokes more than anyone I know. That's why this Wednesday, I won't believe anything he says.

Easter is an April holiday this year and that's a good reason to rejoice. Not only is it the most important day in the Christian religion but it's also a good excuse for women to buy new bonnets and for the rest of us to load up on jellybeans and chocolate rabbits.

Baseball season begins in April and that's a reason to feel good about life. For two weeks every April, I'm sure this will finally be the year the Cleveland Indians win a championship. Unfortunately, my euphoria never makes it past the first of May.

April is the month I wake up my ancient mower from its long winter's nap. That's usually a weekend long ritual filled with oil, gasoline, grease, busted knuckles and four letter words. It's worth it though. The newly mowed yard looks its best in April because the weeds haven't had enough warm weather to take over the grass yet.

Old mowers aren't the only reason four letter words are heard in April. That's because our taxes are due April 15.

Like many people, I love my country but I'm not sure what motivates the people who run it. All of them, Democrats and Republicans alike, seem interested in only one thing and that's getting re-elected. I'm sure that's why I can't tell them apart anymore.

Arbor Day is another reason I like the month so much. Not only do trees make our world beautiful, they also purify the air, stop erosion and give us delicious fruits and nuts to eat. Besides that, April is the month dogwood trees bloom which is another big reason the month is so wonderful.

Many remarkable people have birthdays in April including Thomas Jefferson, William Wordsworth, Wayne Newton, and Jay Leno. All of them deserve our happy birthday wishes. Shirley Warnick also has a birthday in April, which makes the month even more special.

Another great April holiday is Earth Day. I honor that day differently now than I used to. In college we danced all day under the sun with flowers in our hair. Now, I sit quietly on the porch and tell my dogs, Lucky and Gingko, how thankful we should be for every breath we take.

Yes, the beginning of April is worthy of a big celebration. And that's what I plan to do as soon I get a very special birthday cake out of the oven.

Make parents responsible

Dear Editor:

Regarding the article on the front page of the February 11 and March 11 issues of the Gallatin County News pertaining to destructive juveniles, I must ask, "Have you ever met a bad kid?"

The answer to this, if anyone should ask me, is "no", but I have met a lot of sorry parents. And because of these, children aren't called kids, they're called juveniles. When I was a child, they were called juvenile delinquents. That meant they were trouble.

To figure out what to do with these troubled children, it's quite simple to fix—contact the children's father.

Even if these children haven't seen their father for a while, bring him down to the police station. Make him liable for the child he produced. Have him serve the punishment with the child. Have him pick up trash on streets or roads for community service, pay fines, and even do jail time together.

If his father is with him, the child should be alright.

When we make it where the child gets into their father's time, the child will straighten up. But if the father isn't liable for this child, then this male human has fallen way short of being called a man or a dad.

When a boy grows into manhood, he takes on responsibilities of life—car and house payments, insurance, and so on. And if he is so bold as to get a girl pregnant, he is, as a man, totally responsible for the well-being of that child until that child is of age.

You meet family needs before your own. They eat before you eat. You become less important than they are in your own eyes.

At this time, you go from being a father to a dad. If they fail at this, do not label them a man. Call the mother of the child and let her be responsible for them. If the parents can't take care of their kids, they shouldn't have them.

How much greater our community would be if family values were placed at the top of our learning. The man of the family is held by God to be responsible for the spiritual and physical well-being of the family he has produced and will be judged accordingly.

So, again, I ask you, "Have you ever met a bad kid or just met sorry parents that produced them?"

As a man, it makes me ashamed at how we've made the women, whom we should love more dearly than ourselves, step up and do our jobs.

If I could build skyscrapers or find cures for all kinds of diseases, be the greatest sports figure in the world, but then fail to raise my children, I would have failed as a man.

The toughest and most rewarding job in life is to be a good parent.

We must, as a society, hold all mothers and fathers accountable for their own children. It is a sad society that holds people accountable for their pets, but not their children.

As a society, we have the right to judge people on this account. I know God will.

Should teens be in charge at the animal shelter?

Dear Editor:

As a taxpayer, I must ask about the new management at the animal shelter.

Since the Animal Control Officer (ACO) is now also the director, is he "double dipping" at our expense? Does he receive two checks from the county? If both of these positions can be held as part-time, then why haven't they been part time all along?

I stopped at the shelter a few weeks ago and was surprised to be greeted by two teenage girls who said they were running it and their grandfather was the ACO.

The girls were very polite, but I question the prudence of leaving two young girls out there alone. Are these high school kids on payroll and receiving benefits?

I'm sure there are adults in the community who need a job to support their families.

I've worked at places with teenagers and the laws are strict on the number of hours they work as well as how frequent their breaks. They must be under adult supervision at all times.

I would expect some in the private sector to violate the child labor laws, but I'm shocked to see our county government exploit them.

'Pretty darn good session' sets aside politics

The 2015 General Assembly is one of the few state legislatures where Democrats control one chamber and Republicans control the other. Amazingly politics took a back seat as compromise was found on a number of issues.

The results included a high-profile bill to fight the state's heroin overdose epidemic, another bill to stave off huge losses in the state road fund, and another to give civil court protection to victims of dating violence.

Those were the biggies, but when the legislative logjam finally broke on the final night of the session, many other bills were also passed.

In setting a new floor for the state gasoline tax, rather than letting it keep falling because of declines in the wholesale price of gas, the legislature said no to Americans for Prosperity, a right-wing group that ran radio commercials aimed at legislators.

To be sure, some important business was left undone, but that's true of any session, especially those in odd-numbered years, which are half as long as those in the even years.

"For a short session, it was a pretty darn good session," said House Speaker Greg Stumbo, a Frankfort fixture for 35 years.

Senate President Robert Stivers, who also deserves much of the credit, said the legislature proved, "We can set aside politics for policy."

At the start, however, the prospects didn't look good.

Not only did the Republicans who control the Senate assign seats by party, they used the first few days of the session to jam through several bills that were mainly about politics and therefore had no chance in the Democratic House.

The bill to get tough on heroin traffickers, however, did stand a chance, because it was drafted by Sen. Chris McDaniel of Taylor Mill who is running for lieutenant governor on a Republican primary slate headed by Agriculture commissioner James Comer.

The House heroin bill was drafted by Democratic Rep. John Tilley, who was also the prime sponsor of the dating-violence bill. As chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, his counterpart in the Senate was Republican Sen. Whitney Westerfield, who is running for attorney general against Andy Beshear, the son of Gov. Steve Beshear.

The view in the House was that the Senate's tough sentences for heroin wouldn't be a real deterrent and could continue the legislature's old habit of being too eager to lock people up for too long—an expensive trend that Tilley and others helped reverse with a comprehensive reform package a few years ago.

Meanwhile, most senators found it hard to accept the House's plan to start needle-exchange programs for addicts—which have been found to be effective at steering them to treatment and preventing disease, but still seemed like too much of an enabling mechanism for drug abuse.

In the end, both chambers got most of what they wanted, in large measure because Tilley and Westerfield had some things in common—a hometown, Hopkinsville, and a two-man carpool to and from Frankfort.

Tilley said at the bill signing, "I don't think I'd be here today if we weren't able to have some of those long conversations on that three-and-a-half hour drive to and from our hometown."

It was disappointing that Beshear and legislators left to the next governor the need to shore up the Kentucky Teachers' Retirement System, which is in trouble because they haven't properly funded it.

Lawmakers may have missed their best chance to offer voters a constitutional amendment to allow time-limited local sales taxes for specified purposes, and a statewide smoking ban. Still, some Republicans in the Senate, where the smoking ban died, said its time will come.

Senate President Pro Tem David Givens said, "There is a large educational component to it and by the proponents continuing the conversation, continuing to promote the effort, they are educating the populace and educating people who elect us. When they start to move the electorate, they certainly start to move us."

That can't come too soon.

in a vote that followed party lines.

The bill, however, never got a hearing in the Senate. Republican senators argued the bill would have brought undue regulation on business owners who should be allowed to decide whether or not to allow smoking on their property.

•After more than two years of debate, legislators passed a law to extend the same domestic violence protection to people who aren't married as it affords to spouses.

•A move to allow cities or counties the ability to put sales tax levies on the ballot died a quick death halfway through the session.

•The House passed a measure to allow the state to take out bonds to help fill the $14 billion gap in its teacher pension fund. The Senate, balked, however, leaving no fix for the problem.

•The legislature passed a law requiring the use of booster seats in cars for children up to the age of eight or who are under 57 inches tall. That's a change from seven years old and between 40-50 inches.

•A move to raise the campaign finance contribution limits failed. Speaker Greg Stumbo said the current limit of $1,000 for an individual contribution to a candidate had been in place since 1993 and needed to be raised. No action was taken, however, and Stumbo said the issue would be brought back up next year.

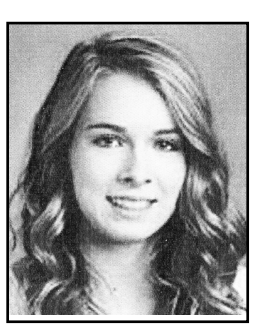
Olivia Urso to attend prestigious Gatton Academy in fall, 2015

Last week, it was reported that Olivia Urso had been invited to attend Craft Academy for Excellence in Science and Mathematics at Morehead State University. Since that time, she has accepted an invitation to attend Gatton Academy of Mathematics and Science at Western Kentucky University this fall.

The Gatton Academy of Mathematics and Science in Kentucky is the Commonwealth's high school for students interested in pursuing advanced careers in science, technology, engineering and mathematics. The 128 students at the Academy spend their junior and senior years taking all their coursework through Western Kentucky University with regularly-enrolled college students. The Academy empowers Kentucky's exceptional young scientists and mathematicians to live and learn in an environment which offers advanced educational opportunities, preparing them for leadership roles. Applicants are high school sophomores who have completed Geometry and Algebra II by the end of their sophomore year. Students are selected based on SAT or ACT scores, academic grades from ninth and tenth grades, interest in advanced careers in science, technology, engineering and math, student responses to application essay questions, recommendation letters and interviews. The application process is competitive with only 20 percent of applicants being accepted into the program.



Olivia Urso

Olivia will finish high school with over 60 hours of college credit. She is the daughter of Tim Urbanski and Anne Sohacki of Sparta.

Volunteers are always needed and welcome at the schools, specifically in the Family Resource Center, the library, and with tutoring.

Fundraiser

•Friends and family of students can now raise money for the schools through purchases they make at a variety of stores listed with SchoolStore.com. The web site is an online shopping mall with over 200 merchants including Sears, Target, Office Depot, Wal-Mart, Disney Store, and Family Book Store. The schools earn money with each purchase. To participate, enter the school's ID#341998 at SchoolStore.com. Students who e-mail invitations to join the fundraising effort will receive prizes for sending at least three e-mail invitations. E-mail addresses will not be shared or used for any purpose other than participation in this program.

Gallatin County High School students Zach Brewer and Andrew Garcia competed at the STLP (Student Technology Leadership Program) state competition at Rupp Arena on Thursday, March 26, with students from schools throughout Kentucky. Competing in the Bench Challenge (an event that tests technical skills), Zach and Andrew finished first place and are STLP State Champions.

Participants were required to complete a written exam, then the top scores advanced to the hands-on assessment, which required the students to fix 15 problems with a computer in 30 minutes. Zach and Andrew were able to resolve 14 of those problems.

Andrew and Zach work as student technicians in the Technology Department at GCHS, working closely with Director of Technology/CIO Michelle Lawrence and the school's network manager on projects, computer issues, and installation of devices and classroom hardware throughout the district.

Zach is a senior at GCHS and the son of Terry Brewer of Glencoe.

Andrew is a junior at GCHS and the son of Michelle Garcia of Verona.

Cats lose four to start season

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter

The Wildcat baseball team got off to a tough start for the new season, losing its first four games, including two close losses in conference play.

On March 17, the young squad fell in the season opener to visiting Grant County by a 13-0 score in five innings.

On March 23, Ryle defeated the Cats 18-2 in five innings. The following day, the boys lost the conference opener at home to Henry County by a 6-5 score.

Gallatin finished the week with a 6-4 home loss to Trimble County.

The Cats have a busy week ahead.

They play at Shelby County on Thursday, April 2, then host Walton-Verona on Friday, April 3. Bourbon County comes to GCHS on Saturday for a noon game and the Cats face Bellevue next Monday, April 6.

Here's the varsity roster for this year's squad: Mason Wilson, Dominic Alexander, Austin Spada, Austin Steurer, Brandon Vest, Noah Ward, Chase Spahn, Justin Rassman, Chandler Jones, Bryson Caldwell, Logan Perry, Zach Marksberry Jr.

The coach is Brian Gognat. The assistant coach is Lenny O'Connor.

Softball team falls to Grant and Henry

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter

The Lady Cats softball team lost two home games to open the season. They fell to Grant County 8-2 in eight innings on March 23.

The next evening, the girls were defeated 16-0 by Henry County.

Gallatin will host Owen County on Wednesday, then are off until after spring break when the team travels to Henry County on the 13th of April.

Like the baseball team, this is a young squad, still coming together.

Golf at General Butler

Robb Hoff

The fifth hole at the General Butler State Resort Park golf course is memorable for its valley view with a strip of lush fairway nestled between two unforgiving hills that will claim every wayward drive.

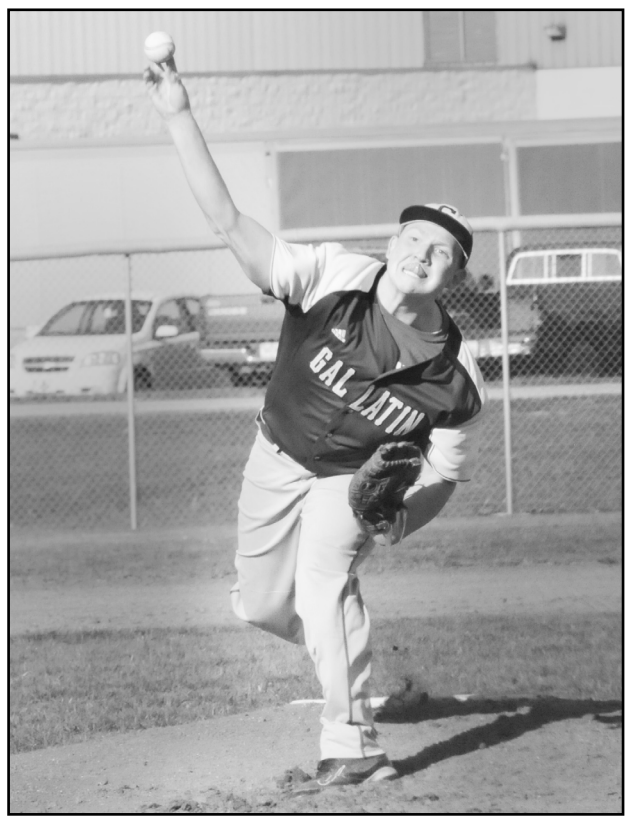
From the tee box elevated far above the green 335 yards away, the hole becomes most memorable though when a perfectly struck drive soars high above the valley floor before finally falling to the fairway below and bounding towards the green that opens up in the distance.

Among the nine holes at General Butler golf course, the fifth hole will always remain special for its vista, but it's even more memorable for me because the daunting hole was the site of my very first birdie as a teenager.

That birdie resulted from a perfect three-wood off the tee and a lofty seven-iron approach that positioned me less than 10 feet from the pin. The shout of sheer joy that erupted when the ball vanished into the cup still echoes for me more than three decades later.

Last year, my teenage son Adam and I played weekly during the summer. Rediscovering the hilly course with all of its nuances and wildlife was a trip down memory lane for me that was made even better just by being able to spend time with my son playing golf.

The memories, the sights and the sounds are worth every penny.



'Cats take on Trimble Co.

Gallatin County's baseball team hosted Trimble County, Monday afternoon, looking for its first win of the year.

Above, Dominic Alexander stretches out and just barely gets safely back to third base in the second inning. Alexander was nearly picked off by the Trimble County pitcher.

At left, starting pitcher Bryson Caldwell fires a ball to the plate in the first inning. Caldwell went three innings and was then relieved by Austin Spada. The Wildcats fell to the Raiders 6-4. The team has three more games this week. The boys travel to Shelby County on Thursday, and then host Walton-Verona on Friday and Bourbon County on Saturday. Photos by Kelley Warnick

Final Four.

A fellow could pocket a modest fortune for times we've heard this Final Four: Ways to beat Kentucky.

From bee hive buzz of television talking heads on the Kentucky-Wisconsin game, ESPN's Jay Williams stirred the pot with an intriguing mostly unnoticed little sentence. "Ya know what? It's time to stop betting against Kentucky."

Irony? This is precisely that time.

With 38 opponents dispatched (three escapes – Ole Miss, Texas A&M and Notre Dame), a generous list of best-of-the-rest teams gone home, this is the match they (Badger Nation) wanted most and you (Big Blue Nation) wanted least.

As entertaining as UK-Notre Dame was last Saturday, this match, on its face, has qualities for greatness. A game to rival Greatest college game ever played, Duke-UK, 1992 (Bob Ryan, Boston Globe).

√ By today, Big Blue and Badger hoops scientists have examined match-ups (Sam Dekker-Willie Cauley-Stein, could be for the purist worth taking a vacation day to see).

√ You/they have compared depth, options, who likes to shoot from where and intangibles, including dance-with-the-stars routines to come from Calipari and normally stoic Bo Ryan.

√ Trips and time required to buy wings, arrange work schedules and program VCRs, all done.

√ Chips 'n dips are prepared and ready for rat-a-tat-tat of talking heads to be found among CBS's endless, mind-numbing commercial blizzard.

Prediction? Too close to call, but we know where our hearts are.

Gallatin Society

faller_faller@aol.com

This week we have three VERY important birthdays, folks getting ready for spring and summer, a great choir performance, pageant news, participation in a worthy cause, a vacation, a show attended, and planning for an important community event.

•Terrie Towles and Jennifer Crabtree drove to Carrollton last Monday to attend boot camp at the Highland Fitness Center. The ladies spent an hour in the group doing cross training exercises, getting ready for those pretty summer clothes.

•Mary Jane Day attended the Monday night meeting for the Warsaw Bicentennial celebration to be held this year. She reports that there were about 20 people in attendance, lots of good ideas discussed, and, hopefully, some of them will be carried out. There will be another meeting on Tuesday, April 7, at 6 p.m. at the Warsaw City Building, and everyone is urged to attend. Wednesday afternoon found Mary Jane at the Extension Office for the program, "Gardening Through the Ages", presented by Doris Meece, David Hull's agricultural assistant. She said the program was very good and put them in the mood to get outside and plant something. On Friday night, Mary Jane attended the heroin meeting at the high school, which she found most informative and just a bit frightening.

•Loretta Dover reports that her granddaughter, Peyton, was a member of the Thornwilde Elementary chorus which performed at the Florence Mall on Thursday evening, and did a great job. Peyton is having a wonderful time participating in her school chorus, as well as the Boone County Honors Choir, and is also in the school play this year. She is a very busy little ten-year-old, and her parents and grandparents are very proud of her.

•Saturday, the Cousins for a Cure Relay Team hosted its 4th annual Relay for Life Dress Sale. It was a huge success, and the team raised a little under $700.00 for their team's efforts for the ACS. Team members include Yolanda Gould, Grace Jones, Jamie Gould, Hazel Homman, Kerry Tackett, Christy Saylor, Tracie Marksberry, Danielle Kemper, and Linda Eckler, all of Warsaw.

•On Saturday Yolanda Gould and her grandmother, Grace Jones, traveled to Shelbyville to watch the Miss Ohio Valley Scholarship Pageant, which is a preliminary to Miss Kentucky in the Miss America Organization. The Miss Winners were Haley Wheeler of Clay City and Hannah Estes of Buckner. The Teen winners were Gabrielle Armour of Central City, and Kristen Price of Louisville.

•Saturday was a big day for the Axon family. Grant got to mow the grass for the first time (in his parka) but he said it felt good to get out and clean up the trash. More importantly, it was their daughter, Kaelin's 21st birthday. They celebrated at BJ's Brew house for dinner and then went up to the Horseshoe Casino in Cincinnati. No big winnings but they all had a great time. Melissa and Grant were there, along with Kaelin's sister, Sarah, brother Nathaniel, grandfather Ronnie, fiancé Brian, and their good friends, Tasha and P.J. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, KAELIN!

•Shirley and Kelley Warnick drove to Columbus, Ohio, Friday afternoon to attend a Paul Thorn concert - one of their favorite musicians. Shirley said the drive was great, with the sun shining both days. The couple stayed at a great hotel located in the art district, with selections from the Pizutti Collection on display throughout the building. She and Kelley enjoyed an excellent dinner prior to the concert, and the show was outstanding. The trip and concert were an early celebration for Shirley's birthday, which is April 1. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, SHIRLEY!

•Boyd Lionberger has just recently returned from a great vacation with his brother, Lowell. Boyd flew to Dallas, Texas on March 17, and Lowell had driven all the way from Denver, Colorado to Dallas in order to meet him at the airport. They stayed in Waco that night, and drove on the next day to South Padre Island. The brothers stayed on the sixth floor of a condo called Suntide for three days and nights. They enjoyed walking on the beach and reminiscing during the day, and usually kicked back and watched basketball in the evenings. They normally made their own meals, but did go out one night for some really excellent seafood. Boyd said they had a nice relaxing vacation until Friday night when the Spring Breakers arrived in full force. The young folks partied all night, until Boyd and Lowell finally just got up at 3 a.m. and prepared to set out for Magnolia, where they spent the rest of the weekend with friends. Boyd said they drove through some heavy rain, but made it safely to Magnolia to enjoy time with their friends. Magnolia is 240 miles from Dallas, so getting Boyd back to the airport for his flight home was not too difficult a drive for Lowell. Boyd made his flight just fine, arrived safely at the airport, and was met by his wife, Betty, and son and daughter-in-law, Keith and Carol West. They all had dinner together before heading for Glencoe and Boyd said he had a wonderful vacation, but was he very glad to be home.

•The Lionbergers enjoyed the company of their daughter, Julie Hamilton, Sunday afternoon. Julie had come to help Betty organize the flowers for the Sunrise Service the family observes at the cemetery every Easter.

On Palm Sunday, Terry Combs-Caldwell and John T. Hemingway hosted an early Easter dinner at the Glencoe home of her mother, Doris Combs. Joining them were Zak, Amber and Carter Combs-Caldwell, of Vevay, and Cal and Megan Combs-Caldwell, of Walton. Lots of conversation and laughter circled the table as 19-month-old Carter kept everyone entertained.

•Mary Rae Mattox had a birthday on Sunday, and rumor has it she has once again attained the ripe old age of 39. I was unable to contact her, so we don't know how she celebrated her special day, but want to say HAPPY BIRTHDAY, MARY RAE!

Chamber of Commerce

The April meeting of the Gallatin County Chamber of Commerce will be held Thursday, April 9, at 9 a.m., at the Gallatin County Extension Office, side room, where breakfast will be served.

Speaker Mary Jane Day will be representing the Gallatin County Tourism Board. She will be discussing the upcoming Warsaw Bicentennial, as well as other events for 2015.

RSVP to jenn@hummelinsurancegroup.com.

South Carolina readers

Sandy Stephenson Dennis, a loyal subscriber in Columbia, South Carolina, loves to read to her grandson, Oliver Murphy, 1. She says Oliver's favorite newspaper is the Gallatin County News. Sandy is an elementary school teacher who believes it's never too early to show a child the value and joy of reading.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

Obituaries

Elwood Haddix

Glencoe resident Elwood Haddix died Saturday, March 28, at his home. He was 91.

Mr. Haddix was a dairy and tobacco farmer most of his life. He had a passion for gardening and the outdoors, and loved raising chickens. He was a member of the Concord Baptist Church for 71 years.

He is survived by his wife, Emma; one son, Michael E. Haddix of Glencoe; two daughters, Karen Wilson of Glencoe and Mary Kathy O'Connor of Union; one brother, Ernest Haddix of Verona; seven grandchildren, and 15 great-grandchildren.

Visitation was held Tuesday, March 31, from 4 to 8 p.m. at Hamilton-Stanley Funeral Home in Verona. The funeral service will begin at 1 p.m., Wednesday, April 1.

Burial will be at New Bethel Cemetery in Verona.

Memorials are suggested to Bluegrass Hospice, 2312 Alexandria Drive, Lexington, KY 40504 or to Concord Baptist Church, 8950 Hwy. 16, Verona, KY 41092.

Judy Lynn McIntyre Brashear

Sanders resident Judy Lynn McIntyre Brashear died Friday, March 27, at St. Elizabeth South in Edgewood. She was 66.

Mrs. Brashear is survived by her father, Ussery "Bill" McIntyre; one daughter, Shonda Davis of Glencoe; two sisters, Patricia McCarty of Louisville and Carol Manley of California; nieces and nephews Jeff, Eddie, Stacy, Todd and Brad; great nieces and nephews Candice, Luke, Timothy, Hannah and Cameron.

She was preceded in death by her mother, Christine Davis McIntyre; and one brother, Gary McIntyre.

Visitation was held Tuesday, March 31, from 4 to 8 p.m. at Garnett-New-McDonald Funeral Home in Warsaw. The funeral service will be held Wednesday, April 1, at 11 a.m. Burial will be at the Warsaw Cemetery.

Martha Mae Summitt Garrett

Martha Mae Summitt Garrett died Friday, March 27, at Signature Healthcare Center in Bedford. She was 78 and a former resident of Warsaw.

Mrs. Garrett was a housewife and a member of the Worthville United Pentecostal Church.

She is survived by five daughters, Maggie Crawford of Glencoe, Martha Humphrey of Milton, Ramona Ritch, Laquilla Wilson and Priscilla Day of Warsaw; five sons, Otis Garrett of Campbellsburg, Lawrence Garrett of Walton, John Garrett of Sparta, Michael Garrett of Verona, and William E. "Bill" Garrett of Rising Sun, Ind.; 27 grandchildren, 46 great-grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, John Thomas Garrett, and one brother, Buford Summitt.

Visitation was held Tuesday, March 31, from 5 to 8 p.m. at Tandy-Eckler-Riley Funeral Home and from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., Wednesday, April 1, at the Worthville United Pentecostal Church.

The funeral service will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday, April 1, at the Worthville United Pentecostal Church.

Burial will be at the Warsaw Cemetery.

Tandy-Eckler-Riley Funeral Home in Carrollton handled the arrangements.

Cards of Thanks

Miles

We would like to say a very heartfelt thank you to our family and friends for the outpouring of love and support that was shown to us during the illness and passing of our mother, Doris Miles.

We thank you for the visits, food, cards, flowers and memorials.

We can't t hank Mark Garnett and Mike McDonald enough for the caring service they provided.

Thank you to Barry Alexander, Sharon Parker, Eddie Chipman and Howard Chipman for the songs, and, Howard, for the wonderful message.

The service was everything she would have wanted it to be.

Thank you.

Hazelwood

The family of William Hazelwood wishes to thank all our family members and friends who offered support through prayers, calls, cards, flowers, hugs or donations during his illness and passing.

A special thank you to the members of the masonic Lodge who held the Masonic service; to Brother Tom Hall/Officiant; Marshall Gibson/Music; the pallbearers Jordan barbour, John Brock, Marshall Gibson, Dan Healey, Chuck McKinney and Christopher Smoot; and to the women at Poplar Grove Baptist Church who prepared and served a delicious lunch.

Thank you to McDonald & New Funeral Home and to the crew members who removed the snow at Poplar Grove Cemetery.

Regardless of the act, thank you to all from the bottom of our hearts.

Sincerely,
Joann, Charisse and Vince,

In Memoriam - Teresa Ryder

So many times I have wanted to visit a friend before they pass this life and so many everyday activities have gotten in the way.

We are not promised tomorrow nor can we make up any yesterdays.

I have so often thought of writing a tribute to one of my firends while they are still living. It just makes more sense to me to let the world know all about them while they are still with us. It seems the perfect thing to do is to marvel at their life, happily, without dealing with the sorrow at the same time.

So, I would like to share this remembrance of Teresa Ryder, with whom I had the pleasure of spending time and sharing many laughs while she was part of my life.

A simple hello, a smile, and knowing you cared was what her life was about.

The oldest shaken baby in the state of Kentucky when she passed will always have an impact on my life.

Thank you, Senator John Schikel for this wonderful act. There willalso be a tree planted and a plaque in her memory in Devou Park.

Planting by the Signs

by Phil Case

This year, instead of trying to write about all the possible contingencies, I'm going to give you the basic moon and stars information and urge you to call, text or email me if you have specific questions.

I will also have some "This and That" at the end of the column.

The moon

The moon is in the light phase now but that will be changing Saturday with the arrival of the full or dark moon at 8:06 p.m. Through Friday, if you are planting anywhere, make it above-ground producers. Then, beginning Saturday afternoon and until the next new moon — or no moon visible in the sky — at 2:57 p.m. April 18, only those crops that produce above the ground.

The signs

With the moon in the light phase for planting above-ground producers, the flowering signs rule the days through Friday with Virgo (the bowels) ruling what's left of today and Thursday and Libra (the reins) in force Friday. Libra continues to rule Saturday after the moon has moved to the dark phase.

Very fertile planting is up for Easter Sunday through Tuesday with the sign in Scorpio (the secrets). Then beginning next Wednesday through April 13 we find our monthly series of so-so signs — Sagittarius through Aquarius/thighs through legs.

The very fertile signs Pisces (the feet) returns April 14-15 with the moon still in the dark phase.

This and that

•It's long been said to plant potatoes on Good Friday. If I were planting potatoes I would wait one more day until Saturday when the moon is in the dark phase or better still Sunday through Tuesday when the dark moon is joined by the very fertile sign Scorpio (the secrets).

•We have a good, long stretch ahead for making changes like stopping smoking, starting a diet, weaning small animals or children — anything that requires a change. The moon will be in the dark phase and the signs going out of the body past anything that functions on April 8-15.

•The danger of frost or freezing weather won't pass for at least another month and safer still another six weeks. Remember that when planting sensitive veggies.

•Even if the air is warm, the ground won't warm as quickly. Be patient, there's no need to plant warm-weather transplants or seeds and watch them languish because the soil temperature isn't to their liking. Stick to veggies that enjoy cool air and soil temperatures.

•Don't plow or break ground now unless the soil is dry. Use the clod test: If a handful of dirt will compress into a mud clod, then it's too wet to plow. If, however, the handful when squeezed crumbles, then it's perfect.

•Beginning Saturday through April 17 would be a good time to put on a shingle roof with the moon in the dark phase to help the shingles stick down.

•Wait until April 19-May 3 to pour gravel or set stones when the moon moves to the light phase. You will then have through all but 18 minutes of May 3 when the next dark moon comes to rule.

Ponds, Ponds, Ponds!

On April 17-18 at the Franklin County Extension office, Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service personnel will bring two workshops in pond management and aquatic weed control.

Program organizers hope to give participants a better understanding of the possibilities of a properly built, well-maintained pond.

Kentucky farms are home to more than 233,000 ponds that serve multiple purposes including water for livestock, crop irrigation and recreational fishing. Good management helps these systems fulfill their potential.

Bill Wurts, Forrest Wynne and Bob Durborow, aquaculture extension specialists with Kentucky State University, will lead both trainings in Central Kentucky.

Their April 17 presentation will focus on aquatic weed control. It begins at 10 a.m. and runs until 4 p.m. EDT.

During the training, specialists will emphasize proper chemical selection, applicator techniques, safety and record keeping. Additional discussion topics include aquatic plant and algae identification, methods of algae control, and herbicide and algaecide use.

The following day's workshop is about farm and recreational pond management.

It will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 12:30 p.m. The workshop will give participants a broad perspective about effective management tactics for ponds used for agricultural purposes and recreational fishing.

The events are free and open to the public. For more information, call the Gallatin County Extension Office at 567-5481.

Doctor Dirt is really David Hull, Gallatin County Extension Agent for Agriculture. If you have farm or garden questions for the good doctor, stop by or call the Extension Office at 567-5481. Or, you can email him at dhull@uky.edu.

News from the 4-H Desk

4-H Camp – The Few, The Proud, The 4-Her

Packets are ready! This year we are camping Monday, June 22nd – Friday, June 26th. This is a great opportunity to meet people from other counties, learn new hobbies and have lots of fun! Some of the classes that you can choose from include: Swimming, canoeing, fishing, rifles, archery, recreation, arts and crafts, low ropes, and nature. And don't forget Sally Down the Alley every night!

This year there will be an early bird cost of $180, if all the paperwork is filled out and paid in full by April 30th. After April 30th, the cost increases to $200.00. This includes materials for classes, all of your meals, snacks, assemblies, transportation, and of course a t-shirt! Stop by the extension office or call 567-5481 to get a packet.

4-H Junk in the Trunk Yard Sale

With the rising cost of camp, leadership conferences, and other 4-H trips, the 4-H council voted to have a fundraiser to help offset costs.

We are having a yard sale/craft sale on Saturday, April 4th starting at 7:00 a.m. at the Gallatin County Extension Office.

The cost is $20.00 to reserve a spot. There will also be a concession stand and a bake sale. Any 4-H member who would like to participate in this fundraiser, please call the office. I am looking for 4-H members to help bake cookies and cupcakes on Friday, April 3rd after school and to help on Saturday during the yard/craft sale.

April is Earth Month in Kentucky

Governor Steve Beshear has proclaimed April as "Earth Month in Kentucky." Each year, Kentucky celebrates Earth Day, which is April 22, to increase awareness of the importance of conservation, stewardship and protection of our natural environment.

Kentucky First Lady Jane Beshear, the Energy and Environment Cabinet and the Kentucky Environmental Education Council are joining together to host the 2015 Earth Day Celebration Thursday, April 9, from 10:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the Brown-Forman Room and Cralle-Day Garden at the Thomas D. Clark Center for Kentucky History in downtown Frankfort. A number of state and local agencies will have booths to educate state employees and the public about how to become better environmental stewards.

Here are a few exhibitor highlights:

The Frankfort Sewer Department (FSD) will bring a full-scale rain barrel display and will offer demonstrations on how easy rain barrels are to set up and install. In addition, FSD will have a small table with a water treatment model that appeals to ages from 2 to 102. "Water Treatment – The Good, The Bad and The Ugly," is a demonstration that covers the concepts of water treatment for both drinking water and wastewater, as well as what happens when these infrastructures do not perform well, are constructed incorrectly or become inundated due to natural weather-related phenomena and/or population growth.

The Kentucky Pollution Prevention Center (KPPC) booth will feature handout publications that highlight the environmental and pollution prevention technical services available to Kentucky businesses and industries.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry will showcase the themes of forestry and soil and give away tree seedlings.

Salato Wildlife Education Center volunteers will bring mammal furs, turtle shells, snake sheds, snake skulls and live snakes.

Kentucky State University will be doing a hands-on watershed demonstration on what a watershed is and how watersheds can become polluted with point source and non-point source pollution.

The Capital City Beekeepers will provide an observation hive that shows bees at work on the honeycomb in an enclosed environment. Observers will not come into contact with the bees.

Walk/Bike Frankfort will share information on bicycle safety.

Warsaw Water Department
Water Quality Report 2014

Water System ID: KY0390444 Manager: Eric Moore 859-567-5900	CCR Contact: Eric Moore 859-567-5900 carolynmarksberry@mw.twcbc.com	Mailing Address: P.O. Box 785 Warsaw, KY 41095	Meeting location and time: City Hall – 303 East Main Second Monday at 6:00 PM

Warsaw treats groundwater drawn from a network of wells drilled into the Ohio River alluvial aquifer. An analysis of the susceptibility of the water supply to contamination indicates that this susceptibility is generally moderate. There are, however, a few areas of concern in the immediate vicinity of our water wells. These include row crops, a sewage treatment plant, some permitted operations, and road exposure that cumulatively increase the potential for release of contaminants within the wellhead protection area. The summary of the water systems susceptibility to contamination is part of the completed Wellhead Protection Plan that is available for inspection during normal business hours at our office.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities). In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Information About Lead:
If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:
Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.
Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.
Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.
Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.
Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.
Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.
Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.
Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.
Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.
Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old.

Kentucky State Parks hosting Easter events

Kentucky State Parks will be serving their annual Easter buffets April 5, and several parks are planning other special events.

The menu includes beef carved on the line, baked country ham, golden fried catfish and hushpuppies. The meal will also include fresh fruit, a cheese bar, garden vegetables, salad and desserts.

Several parks are planning egg hunts and other activities for guests. For more information, or to make lodging reservations, visit www.parks.ky.gov. Here are Easter weekend events (all times are local):

Blue Licks Battlefield State Resort Park, Mount Olivet
Children's Egg Hunt, April 4

Over 2,000 eggs filled with candy will be hidden for girls and boys under the age of 12 to hunt. There will be four different age categories for children: 0-2, 3-5, 6-8 and 9-12. Eggs for each category will be hidden in different locations surrounding the Pioneer Museum. Prizes awarded for those who find the first-, second- and third-place eggs and "special" eggs in each category. In cooperation with the Robertson County Tourism Commission, there will be two different hunts on the morning of April 4. At 11 a.m., age groups 0-2 and 3-5 (Sponsored by the Robertson County Tourism Commission). This hunt will be at the public pool ball field. At 11:30 a.m., age groups 6-8 and 9-12 (Sponsored by Blue Licks and the Blue Licks Commemorative Commission). This hunt will be at the historic battlefield in front of the Pioneer Museum. Call 859-289-5507.

Buckhorn Lake State Resort Park, Buckhorn
Easter Egg Hunt, April 5

The Easter Bunny will be present at Buckhorn Lake as several hundred eggs filled with candy will be hidden for girls and boys the age of 12 and under. There will be different age categories and eggs will be hidden in different areas on the Marina Road. Easter bags with toys in them will be given out as well. The hunt will start at 2:30 p.m. Call 1-606-398-7510 for more information.

Carter Caves State Resort Park, Olive Hill
Easter Weekend Getaway, April 3-5

Carter Caves will have family-oriented programs throughout the weekend. Events include egg coloring, scavenger hunting, a wildflower walk and other fun activities. On Easter Sunday, the park is serving the Easter buffet. The annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Carter Caves Homemakers – with over 1,000 eggs for children 12 and under – starts at 2 p.m. at the welcome center. Tours of Cascade and X-cave will be on a regular schedule. Call 1-606-286-4411.

Grayson Lake State Park, Grayson
Easter Crafts, Contest and Eggs, April 3-4

Campers at Grayson Lake begin decorating their campsite April 3 for the campsite decorating contest. Easter crafts at the campground shelter will be 3-4 p.m. The Easter egg hunt is Saturday, April 4, starting at noon. Age groups are 2 and under, 3-5, 6-9, and 10-12. Campsite decorating contest winners will be announced. Call 606-474-2553.

Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, Prestonsburg
Easter Egg Hunt, April 4

It is a hopping good time at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park campground! Children age 12 and under are invited to come look for all the eggs hidden throughout the campground. We will have three age groups and 6,000 eggs along with prize eggs! You will have the opportunity to meet the Easter Bunny and have your photo with him. Each child must be accompanied by a parent or guardian, and there will be separate areas for different age groups. This event is free. Call 606-889-1790.

John James Audubon State Park, Henderson
Eggstravaganza, March 28

Bring kids ages 3-7 for a hopping good time at the annual Eggstravaganza, 10:30 a.m. to noon at the Audubon Museum. Children will enjoy Funny Bunnies Art, storytelling, live bunnies and Easter snacks. Children must be accompanied by an adult. Registration required. The fee is $7. Alpha emitters [4000] (pCi/L)	15	0	1.9	1.1 to 2.27	May-10	No	Erosion of natural deposits
Combined radium (pCi/L)	5	0	1.3	1.04 to 1.512	Mar-10	No	Erosion of natural deposits
Uranium (µg/L)	30	0	0.29	0.216 to 0.34	May-10	No	Erosion of natural deposits
Barium [1010] (ppm)	2	2	0.06	0.06 to 0.06	Nov-14	No	Drilling wastes; metal refineries; erosion of natural deposits
Fluoride [1025] (ppm)	4	4	1.1	1.1 to 1.1	Nov-14	No	Water additive which promotes strong teeth
Nitrate [1040] (ppm)	10	10	5.75	4.73 to 5.75	Sep-14	No	Fertilizer run off; leaching from septic tanks, sewage; erosion of natural deposits

Nitrate in drinking water at levels above 10 ppm is a health risk for infants of less than six months of age. High nitrate levels in drinking water can cause blue baby syndrome. Nitrate levels may rise quickly for short periods of time because of rainfall or agricultural activity. If you are caring for an infant you should ask advice from your health care provider.
